

FARMLAND FACT SHEET – MANITOBA

MANITOBA

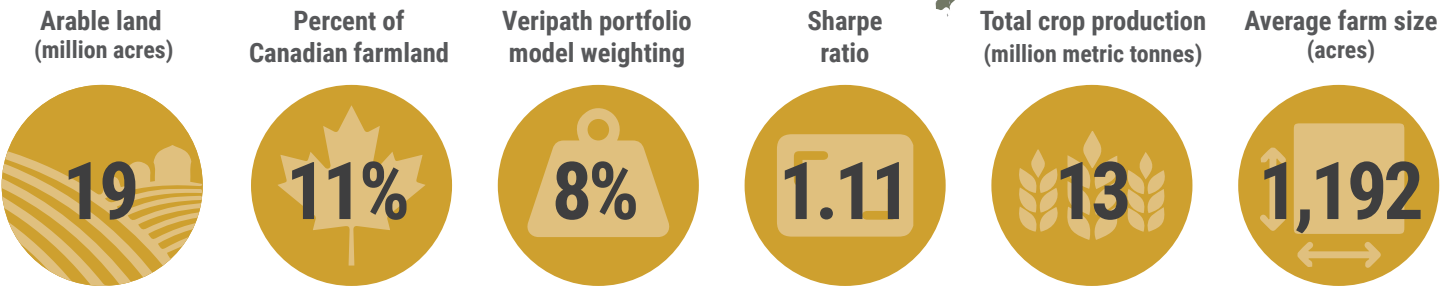

“The master’s eye is the best fertilizer.”
— Pliny the Elder

MAJOR CROPS:

“We are all complicit, and farmer-bashing is not going to help. We need farmers, more than any other profession. If lawyers, politicians, bankers, university academics or salesmen were to somehow disappear tomorrow, I think the world would muddle through pretty well. Some things might even get better. But if farmers were to vanish, most of us would be dead within a year.” — Dave Goulson

KEY METRICS:

OWNERSHIP REGULATIONS:

Legislation in Manitoba allows institutional and foreign persons and entities to acquire up to 40 acres of farmland unless the Manitoba farmland securities board grants an exemption or unless the farmland is purchased for the purpose of generating wind power for sale to Manitoba Hydro. Only the following persons may purchase land in Manitoba unrestricted: Canadian citizens and permanent residents; corporations controlled by Canadian farmers and their families; municipalities, local government districts, and governmental agencies; private corporations and other entities that are 100% Canadian-owned; individuals who establish to the satisfaction of the Manitoba Farm Lands Ownership Board that they intend to become permanent residents or Canadian citizens within two years of acquiring the interest in farmland.
